Introduction

This FSR-ACER residential course covers the scope of the EU Regulation on Wholesale Energy Market Integrity and Transparency (REMIT) and the way in which it is implemented.

In force since 28 December 2011 and amended in 2024, REMIT* is the legislation introducing a sector-specific, directly applicable framework to detect and deter market abusive behaviour of insider trading and market manipulation, including attempted market manipulation, in European long- and short-term wholesale energy markets, both for electricity and gas. It pursues a three-sided aim:

- to increase trust in the integrity of the gas and electricity markets;
- to ensure that prices of wholesale energy products reflect a competitive and fair interplay between supply and demand, securing the optimal allocation of resources;
- to prevent profits resulting from market abuse.

Furthermore, its peculiarity lies also in the complex, multi-layered monitoring and enforcement system involving national actors, such as the National Regulatory Authorities for energy (NRAs), and European ones, such as the EU Agency for the Cooperation of Energy Regulators (ACER).

The FSR-ACER training course on REMIT covers the most relevant concepts (i.e., insider trading and market manipulation), the main obligations and prohibitions falling on market participants and other sector stakeholders (e.g., the obligation to disclose inside information) and the cooperation between the different actors in market surveillance (NRAs, ACER etc.). The course also illustrates the main changes brought about by the 2024 revision of REMIT.

This course builds on the unique combination of academic knowledge and practical expertise and experience of instructors from the FSR and ACER. Furthermore, the perspective of organised market places will be addressed. Instructors will also present case studies to provide course participants with examples to engage them in evaluating practical situations.

The REMIT and its implementation training course will be organised in Florence to approach the topic at a more advanced level, focusing on how the relevant concepts have been interpreted and implemented in practice. The course targets senior professionals already familiar with the topics and digs deeper into the prohibitions and obligations laid down by REMIT.

A complementary optional workshop will be run online on 29 October 2025 at an introductory level to allow participants who are new to the topic to familiarise themselves with the main concepts relevant to REMIT and its implementation ahead of the course. All participants in the course will have free access to the workshop.

Due to the limited capacity of the training room, registration to the training course in Florence is restricted to a limited number of participants, allocated on a first-come-first-served basis.
