LIFE COASE Exploitation Webinars

Two exploitation webinars were held at the end of the project.

The first webinar, entitled "20 Years of EU ETS Data – Insights from the Life Coase Project," was organised in the context of the Conference on Evidence-Based Climate Policies, which took place at the EUI and online on December 1, 2025. In this webinar, Jan Abrell (University of Basel) and Marie Raude (European University Institute) introduced participants and viewers to the data that underpins the analysis and evaluation of the EU ETS. They highlighted the limitations of the available data as well as the efforts made to enhance its usability. These efforts have been an integral part of the Life Coase project and aim to pave the way for a greater quantity and higher quality of empirical studies assessing the EU ETS.

The webinar is publicly available on the project website and can be viewed under the following link:

The second webinar, titled “Overcoming fragmentation: improving EU ETS data for policy and research,” was held as part of the FSR Online Debate Series on December 9, 2025. The discussion focused on the current state of EU ETS-related data and the remaining obstacles to its effective use for policy and research. Marie Raude (EUI) presented relevant insights from the Life Coase project, which were subsequently discussed in a panel debate featuring speakers Jan Abrell (University of Basel), Aliénor Cameron (OECD, EUI), Liza Leimane (EEA), and Meili Vanegas Hernandez (Sandbag).
